++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cloudy with patchy rain arriving in the west.

Today:
Early low cloud and fog will lift to give some bright spells. However, thicker cloud will bring some patchy rain into the far west and northwest at times. Another warm day for the time of year. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Tonight:
A cloudy evening with light rain across northern and western areas. A band of patchy light rain with hill fog, will move southeast across Wales overnight. Clearer weather arriving later. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Sunday:
The last of the overnight cloud and rain will soon clear to the southeast to leave a fine day on Sunday with lots of sunshine. Feeling fresher than of late. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Mostly dry on Monday with sunny spells. Cloudier on Tuesday, perhaps with patchy rain in the north and east. Mainly dry again on Wednesday with fog clearing to sunny spells.
